Getting into DC, Dealing with the Police and Protest Tactics including TRUMP'S REQUEST

Body camera! Trump says so. Catch the abuse they heap on us!

"Hey Siri, I'm getting pulled over" or "Hey Google, start recording." Or don't rely on cucked services that will be down/hard to use in the noise and prepare an old phone before or specialized camera for "vlogging or lifelogging" (I saw $50 wearable cameras for longer-term filming) Train to quickly turn it on as soon as you see even a hint of conflict. You're trying to catch the first blow

Other body cam tips: using "a fully charged old phone (with the recording time limit off) and an extra battery pack, a case, and some Velcro strips from walmart anyone can rig something together. - User KAGMAGIC2020

Self Defense Plans!

The Basics

The bigger your group the better, 3 people is the absolute minimum. keep a video on antifa and especially the police at all times. Keep someone with first aid training in each group.

32db+ earplugs like these to protect from sound cannons and pass out to the patriots around you.

Extras

Skateboards double as a shield, umbrellas provide visual cover and defense against light objects like gravel.

Pouring water on tear gas canisters neutralizes them, particularly if you place a traffic cone over it first and pour into the hole.

Gas masks should be legal in public and could never hurt to have around. Somebody has to put the cone on top.

Fireblankets, extinguishers for the obvious.

Raincoats to pass out

Very useful. Just hang it on your backpack and charge your devices while you're walking around in daytime.

AMEN the thing I fear most is that the globalist hijack our movement. We spent all year crying about commie faggots and their larping we can't follow their footsteps. If Scammy Davis Junior can hijack us we're pretty vulnerable. There's one leader, one movement with one goal.

I live in Arlington right across the river from DC. It isn't fucking raining here. It's cold here but it isn't raining. And Google and Apple Maps are giving directions to DC. I set locations from Boston, Miami and Denver to DC and got map directions for all three. Love this site but there are some hysterical people on here.

Ironically, directions to DC work just fine on Google Maps (for now).

As for Apple Maps, directions do work if you ask directions to The White House.

Finally, it's the DC government themselves that started shutting down the roads.

The only realistic way to get there now is by airplane or Amtrak.

If you are coming from the South through VA, take 95 to 395 and across the George Mason bridge and then take the exit for Washington Ave SW. It'll dump you right in front of the Capitol. Lived in Northern VA all my life.

Having lived in Silver Spring for 10 years, this is not unusual at all. We have truth on our side there's no need to just make shit up and point to conspiracies that don't exist.

I wonder how long it will take Google to hand over the data of everyone in DC this weekend from out of state to be targeted by the IRS like they did the Tea Party supporters back in 2012.

Should have invested in a Garmin GPS, runs maps locally off a GPS signal. No chance for any google tampering there.

However as it's been posted here already, you placed your pin nowhereville, try putting it on a road and see

No. Go move to the area and find out how often this happens.

Our movement is being completely destroyed by conspiracy faggots. I'm so sick of this. This is why we have zero credibility to the impressionable middle that we sure would like to have on our side if this gets hot.

This is a very minor thing but it's a symptom of a larger problem. As soon as anything happens "Aaaargh!!!! conspiracy! Deep state! SatanicPedophile faggots are trying to rape us in the mouth!"

It's tiresome.

If there's no conspiracy, why do you think the election irregularities appear to be all in Biden's favor, and why did key events happen at the same time on election night in different states?

Honestly trying to understand where you're coming from here mate.

This happens when you try to get directions to a place that cannot be reached, like if there are road closures in effect - as there are right now. I'm currently able to get directions to Freedom Plaza

I saw this on conspiracy..

My thought is due to the road closures the algorithm can't accurately set the path. Instead of routing people off a cliff (looking at you apple maps) it just throws its hands up.

What if you put your destination at an address just outside the area that is completely blocked off due to the protest? Probably works then and this is all just noise
